

Computational Science II

Kim Taewon

September 12, 2023

Contents

Contents	2
1 Introduction	3

Chapter 1

Introduction

Dequantization is a process of showcasing the classical version of certain quantum machine learning (QML) algorithms with only a polynomial slowdown, thereby questioning the exponential quantum advantage of QML algorithms. QML in general and the assertion of the advantage that QML might yield, are founded on so-called HHL algorithm, which stands for Harrow, Hassidim and Lloyd.